How to get a FreeBird licence

When you install Freebird after downloading from the internet, you have a 30day trial. To change this to a full licence you need to contact us with a registration key to get a licence.

Here is how you get the registration key.

Start up your demo version of Freebird ,and click the 'Help' menu item as show in fig 1 below.

fig1: Click on >Help>Registration

This will bring up a registration window, as show in fig 2. Fill in your name, company and email. If no company, just fill with "blank", or "na", but there has to be something in each field.

fig 3: Create registration details

Now, simply paste the encrypted registration key into an email and send to us at freebird.co.nz@gmail.com. Upon payment, or other agreed arrangement, another encrypted licence key will be emailed back to you, which you can then paste into the licence area of the registration form. In the meantime, your demo version will continue to run. (You don't need to keep the registration form open, while you wait for a licence, just close it with the [x] in the top right corner. Then open again as per the first steps above when you receive your licence).

In something goes wrong, the encrypted key can be manually selected, as in fig 4 below, and then pasted manually into an email to us, as described above.
